5th Symposium on a Long Term Clinical Care of Parkinson’s Disease, Vol. 31(suppl 1), 1991

Tokyo
April 21, 1990
T. Nakanishi, Tokyo

27 figures, 18 tables, 1991
Drug Dosage

The authors and the publisher have exerted every effort to ensure that drug selection and dosage set forth in this text are in accord with current recommendations and practice at the time of publication. However, in view of ongoing research, changes in government regulations, and the constant flow of information relating to drug therapy and drug reactions, the reader is urged to check the package insert for each drug for any change in indications and dosage and for added warnings and precautions. This is particularly important when the recommended agent is a new and/or infrequently employed drug.
Contents

Preface
Nakanishi, T. ................................................................................................................... 1

A Nationwide Collaborative Study on the Long-Term Effects of Bromocriptine in Patients with Parkinson’s Disease. The Fourth Interim Report

Transplants in Parkinson’s Disease
Lindvall, O. ................................................................................................................... 17

Differential Responses of Noradrenaline and Dopamine Neurons in the Mouse Forebrain Induced by Continuous Parenteral Infusion of Haloperidol

Iron in Brain Function and Dysfunction with Emphasis on Parkinson’s
Disease
Youdim, M.B.H.; Ben-Shachar, D.; Riederer, P. ................................................................. 34

Autonomic Nervous System Disorders in Parkinson’s Disease
Takahashi, A. ................................................................................................................... 41

Neuropathology of the Substantia nigra
Gibb, W.R.G. ................................................................................................................... 48

Author Index Subject Index