Drug Dosage

The authors and the publisher have exerted every effort to ensure that drug selection and dosage set forth in this text are in accord with current recommendations and practice at the time of publication. However, in view of ongoing research, changes in government regulations, and the constant flow of information relating to drug therapy and drug reactions, the reader is urged to check the package insert for each drug for any change in indications and dosage and for added warnings and precautions. This is particularly important when the recommended agent is a new and/or infrequently employed drug.

All rights reserved.

No part of this publication may be translated into other languages, reproduced or utilized in any form or by any means, electronic or mechanical, including photocopying, recording, microcopying, or by any information storage and retrieval system, without permission in writing from the publisher or, in the case of photocopying, direct payment of a specified fee to the Copyright Clearance Center (see ‘Information for Readers and Subscribers’).

© Copyright 1986 by
S. Karger AG, P.O. Box, CH-4009 Basel (Switzerland) Printed in Switzerland by Thürr AG Offsetdruck, Pratteln ISBN 3-8055-4384-0

Contents

Foreword by the Editors .......................................................................................................................... 137

Editorial
Bénichoux, R ............................................................................................................................................. 139

Surgical Management of Complicated Hydatid Cysts of the Liver
Androulakis, G.A...................................................................................................................................... 145

Hepatic Dearterialization in Cancer: New Perspectives
Bengmark, S.; Puntis, M.; Jeppsson, B................................................................................................... 151

Gastric Stress Ulcer of the Rat: Relative Contribution of the Pyloric Sphincter, HCO3 Bile Reflux and Mucosal Blood Flow
Bénichoux, R.; Durlik, M.; Mailhard, D.................................................................................................... 159

Intraoperative Manometry – A Useful Tool in Biliary Surgery?
Boeckl, O.; Pimpfl, W.; Waldner, B.; Heinerman, M ................................................................................... 169

Shock Waves: A New Physical Principle in Medicine
Brendel, W................................................................................................................................................ 177

Dipyridamole-Induced Coronary Vasodilation in Human Transplanted Heart:
Preliminary Report
Tavolaro, O.; Nitenberg, A.; Lodsance, D.; Foult, J.-M.; Cachera, J.-P ....................................................... 181

Current Status in the Management of Proximal Bile Duct Carcinoma
Camprodon, R........................................................................................................................................... 190

Predictive Indices for the Identification of High-Risk Patients
Dionigi, R.; Dominioni, L......................................................................................................................... 204

What Every Surgeon Should Know regarding Asbestos-Related Disease
Gruber, U.F............................................................................................................................................... 207

Contribution of Nuclear Medicine to Vascular Surgery
Keaveny, T.V............................................................................................................................................. 213

Collagen in Surgical Research