Editors' Note: Double Publication

It has come to the Editors’ notice that a paper published in Journal of Vascular Research (Jung F, Franke RP, Mrowietz C, Wolf S, Kiesewetter H: Capillary occlusion and secondary angiogenesis in a patient with Raynaud phenomenon. J Vasc Res 1992;29:71-74) consisted in part of material which had already been accepted (but not published) in International Journal of Microcirculation (Jung F, Franke RP, Mrowietz C, Wolf S, Kiesewetter H, Wenzel E: Capillary occlusion and secondary angiogenesis: Case report. Int J Microcirc 1992; 11: 167-170). Neither cross-references nor footnotes are contained in the two articles, and neither of the two editors of the two journals was informed. According to the International Committee of Medical Journal Editors (see e.g. Br Med J 1991;302:338-341), apart from cited abstracts, prior or double publication can only be considered in rare and particular circumstances, and only when the editors of both journals allow this to occur, and this is the policy followed by Journal of Vascular Research.
