Medical Art

D.

Casellas

scanning electron micrograph of the vascular replicates of two superficial glomeruli. After removal of surrounding tissues, the metacrylate cast reveals the three-dimensional pattern of capillary networks. The afferent arteriole of the upper glomerulus branches directly from the vascular pole of the lower glomerulus. This kind of 'twin' glomeruli is rather unfrequent. $\times 450$.