Medical Art

D.

Casellas

CHR Saint-Charles, Montpellier, France

Scanning electron micrograph of the luminal surface of Bowman's capsule where it abruptly connects to the proximal tubule. Short, blunt microvilli and cilia are visible at the otherwise smooth epithelial surface with evidence of pinocytotic activity. Note the contrast with the prominent brush border of the proximal tubule. X 3,000.