The former journal Renal Physiology and Biochemistry has now been made me official international organ of the Gesellschaft fur Nephrologie and of the Hochdruck-Liga. Accordingly, the scope of the journal will in future comprise both clinical and basic research dedicated to the interacting areas of kidney and blood pressure. To reflect the widened scope of the journal, its new name will be Kidney and Blood Pressure Research. Besides the proceedings of the societies' annual meetings, the journal will still publish original papers and editorials which may be contributed by investigators throughout the world. As in the past, all papers will be subject to rapid, fair, but selective peer review.
