List of Communication

Gastroenterologia 1955;83:27

Pains after Cholecystectomy

C.	Charles	Newman

London

Summary

Dr. Charles Newman (London), in summing up, commented on the potential value of the improved methods of visualising the bile ducts in the investigation of the properties of new drugs; it would be easier in future to avoid such errors as the supposed vagus-inhibiting action of pethidine. He also drew attention to the value of adequate doses of belladonna in the treatment of recurring pain after cholecystectomy.