Instructions to Authors

Ethical and legal prerequisites: Manuscripts handed in for publication dealing with examinations of probands and patients must include the declaration that the trial protocol has been approved by an ethical committee and thus meets the standards of the Declaration of Helsinki (1964) and its amendments. At the same time the proband’s informed consent has to be included in the manuscript. Information suitable to reveal the proband’s identity is to be avoided. Animal experiments demand consent as well and must meet the requirements of the German laws protecting animals in their current version. A reference to this approval must be included in the manuscript. Articles from outside the FRG must include a comparable notice.

1. General Remarks – Publishing Laws

Please send your manuscript directly to S. KARGER Publishers, attn.: Mrs. Susanne Meister, Löracher Str. 16 a, D-79115 Freiburg. Contributions are classified as review articles, short reviews, original articles, ongoing clinical trials, FAX communication, casuistic contributions, clinical pathological conference, letters to the editors, commentaries, opinion, oncological education, clinical information, congress reports, Wilsede School.

Review articles, original papers, ongoing clinical trials, FAX communication and casuistic contributions must be written in English. All other contributions may be handed in optionally in German or English. The manuscript should be submitted in four copies ready for printing, alternatively on disk and triplicate printout (preferred Microsoft Word on 3.5-inch MS-DOS formatted disk) with figures suitable for reproduction. Each author should always keep a copy of the manuscript. Acceptance of a manuscript is based on the evaluation by several referees, each scientific contribution is peer reviewed. The publisher reserves the right to edit the manuscript and decide on the layout. In a covering letter all authors of a manuscript must confirm by their signature that the submitted paper or part of it (with the exception of communications for congresses) was not published previously nor that it is under simultaneous consideration for publication elsewhere. The authors are furthermore asked to confirm that all of them have read the manuscript and that they agree to have it published in the present form. It is the author’s responsibility to obtain permission to reproduce illustrations, tables etc. from other publishers. Once the manuscript is accepted for publication, all the rights will be retained by the publisher. The publication, or parts of it, may not be translated into other languages, or reproduced by any mechanical or electronic means (including photocopying, recording and microcopying), or stored in a retrieval system without the publisher’s written permission.

Registered trade names must be marked with the superscript registration symbol ®. It is the sole responsibility of the author to ensure that this rule is followed properly.

2. Manuscripts

The text of the manuscripts should be limited to 8 pages for review articles. 6 pages for original articles, 4 pages for other contributions, and should be typed in a spacing of 1 line with adequately wide margins (left and right). They should be consecutively numbered (including front page and reference list).
Each additional complete or partial page to print is charged to the author (see below).

We recommend the following division:
Front page with title and short title in German and English; authors’ names, institute name in the native language of the authors.

Summary and Key Words in English and German (translation by the editor is possible).
Summaries should not exceed 20 typewritten lines and should be assembled in the following order: Background, Material and Methods, Results, Conclusions. Summaries should not include any references, tables, figures, references to figures and tables and general statements. Each article should have 3-5 key words.

Text pages should be divided into Introduction, Materials and Methods (optionally Patients and Methods), Results, Discussion. Footnotes (with numbers) are placed at the bottom of each page of the text. Please use abbreviations as economically as possible. Special abbreviations should be written in full when first mentioned followed by the abbreviation in parentheses, e.g. adenosine monophosphate (AMP).

Review articles do not adhere to the framework of original papers. The title page, a summary, key words and a list of references are, however, compulsory.

Acknowledgements should be placed directly after the text and before the list of references.
The list of references should include only the publications cited in the text. The references should be numbered according to their order of appearance in the text. In each reference all authors should be denoted; the abbreviation ‘et al.’ should be avoided. It is recommended to quote only articles which have been either published already or accepted for publication. Please avoid passages like ‘in preparation’ or ‘personal communication’.

Quotes from references are inserted into the text with or without the name of the first author, e.g. [1], or Romberg [1] or Romberg et al. [1].

For references the following examples are compulsory:

Outline of a magazine reference:

Outline of a book reference:

The number of figures and tables should be limited and aim to illustrate the text. Figures are listed in the text as (fig. 1), tables as (table 1). Figures already mentioned in the text need not be repeated in a table. Accordingly, numbers used in tables need not be repeated in the text. Figures in color may be accepted, provided the author is prepared to defray the costs involved (see below).

Original figures should be submitted in quadruplicate, original and 3 copies. Do not fasten them with glue or paper clips or punch holes in them. Please state on the back the author’s name, the title of the article, the ‘top’ instruction and the number of the figure.

All figures and tables must include a legend. All legends should be listed together on a separate page. Legends should be kept short and precise and should illustrate the figures and tables exhaustively. The data should not be interpreted in the legend but exclusively in the text.
Author’s address
Please give the author’s full address at the bottom of the article.

3. Costs and Reprints
The author will be charged for corrections to the galley proofs entailing expenses in excess of 10% of the original typesetting costs.

If a paper exceeds the allotted size and will not be abridged by the author, each additional printed page is charged to the author at DEM 650.00.

Color illustrations are reproduced at the author’s expense. Each one is charged to the author at DEM 450.00 as contribution to the additional reproduction and color printing costs.

The correspondence author will receive 25 complimentary reprints.
