The papers printed in this section of Caries Research came out of a Scientific Advisory Group Workshop to review clinical studies, held in Toronto, Canada, October 23, 1992. The Editorial Board decided to respond favorably to the request made by the Workshop organisers to consider publishing this material in Caries Research. The Journal reflects the forefront of research within dental caries, publishing work of current debate in the scientific community. Each paper in this issue was required to undergo the usual vigorous scientific peer review; all the selected reviewers are of international standing in their field. It should be noted that this publication does not endorse any particular product. The views expressed in the papers are entirely those of the authors and are not necessarily those of the European Organisation for Caries Research (ORCA). This addendum to the fourth issue has been made possible by a financial contribution by The Procter and Gamble Company, Cincinnati, USA
