International Workshop: Understanding Dental Caries – Implications for Future Oral Health Care
Aarhus, Denmark, July 6–8th, 1996
This discussion-based participative workshop is being organised by a group led by Prof. Ole Fejerskov. Fifteen key papers from recognised authorities will be published in Community Dentistry and Oral Epidemiology to serve as a basis for a series of discussion about the next steps required for planning appropriate health care for adults, children and the elderly. Topics will include a selection of diagnostic tools, analysis of the available data, as well as the extent to which existing knowledge is being applied in clinical dentistry and epidemiology.

Although separate from the ORCA meeting, the workshop will be held nearby at an attractive conference centre and will convene on the Saturday evening, after the ORCA meeting. It will conclude at midday on the following Monday. Numbers will be limited, so early indication of interest is advised. The registration fee for the entire workshop is USD 300.00 and includes first class hotel accomodation and all meals.
