Contents, Vol. 31, 1979

Contents

Theory
Kimball, C.P.: Changing Concepts in Psychosomatic Theory. I. Historical Analysis . . 1
Rees, W.L.: A Reappraisal of Some Psychosomatic Concepts 9
Musaph,H.: The Right of Falling Ill. On Pathological Health Behavior 18
Shapiro, D.: Biofeedback and Behavioral Medicine: an Overview 24
Groen, J.J.: The Psychosomatic Theory of Bronchial Asthma 38

Education
Ramsay, R.A.; Krakowski, A.J.; Wittkower, E.D., and Engelsmann, F.: Definition,
Practice, and Teaching of Psychosomatics. A Global Survey 49
Leigh, H. and Reiser, M.F.: Goals of Education in Psychosomatic Medicine 59
Nakagawa, T. and Ikemi, Y.: Teaching Psychosomatic Approaches as a Basis of Clinical Medicine 67
Meyer, A.-E.: German Developments in Teaching Psychosomatics and Psychotherapy to Medical Students 75
Schüffel, W.; Egle, U.; Schairer, U., and Schneider, A.: Does History-Taking Affect Learning of Attitudes? 81
Destounis, N.: On Education and Research in Ecological Medicine (Psychosomatic Medicine). Psychosomatic Medicine of the Year 2000 93
Krakowski, A.J.: Liaison Psychiatry in the West. The View from 1977 98
Priest, R.G.: Teaching the Future General Practitioner 106
Presented on the Example of the Ostomy Group 114

Contents

VI

Research
Gaddini, R.: Early Psychosomatic Pathology 121
Knobel, M.: Hebiatric Psychosomatic Medicine 128
Silverman, A.J.: Field Dependency, Brain Asymmetry and Psychophysiological Differences 133
Miller de Paiva, L.: Amygdaloid Nucleus Syndrome and Dehumanization Syndrome . 143
Nakao, H.: Emotional Behavior and the Brain 156
Corson, S.A. and O’Leary Corson, E.: Interaction of Genetic and Psychosocial Factorsin Stress-
Reaction Patterns: a Systems Approach to the Investigation of Stress-Coping Mechanisms 161
Speciani, L.O.: The Psychosomatic Key as a Core Approach to the Modern Plagues of Mankind 172