Downregulation of miR-519a Predicts Poor Prognosis and Contributes to Tumor Progression in Gastric Cancer

Huimei Cai^a Hui Lin^a Wenyu Cao^a Juan Sun^a Yudian Huang^b
Yuehua Fang^c

^aDepartment of Gastroenterology, Fuzhou First Hospital Affiliated to Fujian Medical University, Fuzhou, China; ^bDepartment of Pathology, Fuzhou First Hospital Affiliated to Fujian Medical University, Fuzhou, China; ^cDepartment of Clinical Laboratory, Fuzhou First Hospital Affiliated to Fujian Medical University, Fuzhou, China

Retraction Statement See Next Page

Retraction Statement

Paper by Huimei Cai, Hui Lin, Wenyu Cao, Juan Sun, Yudian Huang, and Yuehua Fang entitled “Downregulation of miR-519a Predicts Poor Prognosis and Contributes to Tumor Progression in Gastric Cancer” [Oncol Res Treat. 2020;43:19–26, doi: 10.1159/000504054]

The article by Huimei Cai, Hui Lin, Wenyu Cao, Juan Sun, Yudian Huang, and Yuehua Fang entitled “Downregulation of miR-519a Predicts Poor Prognosis and Contributes to Tumor Progression in Gastric Cancer” [Oncol Res Treat. 2020;43:19–26, doi: 10.1159/000504054] has been retracted by the Publisher and the Editors. Following publication it was brought to our attention that the article had been simultaneously published in another journal by the authors. The authors have not responded to our correspondence regarding this retraction despite multiple attempts of contact.