The William J. Cunliffe Scientific Awards

Christos C. Zouboulis

Departments of Dermatology and Immunology, Dessau Medical Center, Dessau, Germany

The William J. Cunliffe Lectureship for Lifetime Achievement
in Endocrine Dermatology
and Skin Pharmacology, especially in the Area
of the Pilosebaceous Unit

The William J. Cunliffe Prize for Research
in Endocrine Dermatology
and Skin Pharmacology,
especially in the Area
of the Pilosebaceous Unit

The William J. Cunliffe Scientific Awards aim to recognise and encourage innovative and outstanding research in the areas of endocrine dermatology and skin pharmacology conferring great benefit upon understanding the function of the pilosebaceous unit as well as the pathophysiology and treatment of its diseases.

The following scientists have received the William J. Cunliffe Scientific Awards in the years 2001–2005:

Prof. William J. Cunliffe, Leeds, UK: William J. Cunliffe Lectureship 2001

Prof. Rolf Hoffmann, Marburg, Germany: William J. Cunliffe Prize 2002, for his work 'Steroidogenic enzymes and hair diseases'

Dr. Andrea Koreck/Dr. Andor Pivarcsi, Szeged, Hungary: East European Prize for Acne Research 2002, for their work 'The role of sebocytes in the innate immunity'

Prof. Albert M. Kligman, Philadelphia, Pa., USA: William J. Cunliffe Lectureship 2003

Prof. Jenny Kim, Los Angeles, Calif., USA: William J. Cunliffe Prize 2004, for her work 'Activation of Toll-like receptor 2 in acne triggers inflammatory cytokine responses'

Prof. Andrzej T. Slominski, Memphis, Tenn., USA: William J. Cunliffe Prize 2004, for his work 'Neuro-endocrine system of the pilosebaceous unit'

Prof. John S. Strauss, Iowa, Iowa, USA: William J. Cunliffe Lectureship 2005

Dr. Evgenia Makrantonaki, Berlin/Dessau, Germany: Albert M. Kligman Travel Fellowship 2005, for her work 'Aging of human sebocytes in vitro induced by exposure to a defined hormone environment'

Dr. WenChieh Chen, Kaohsiung, Taiwan: Albert M. Kligman Travel Fellowship 2005, for his work 'Atrophic and inhibitory effect of corticosteroids on proliferation and differentiation of sebaceous glands'

Marina K. Oeff, Berlin/Dresden, Germany: Albert M. Kligman Travel Fellowship 2005, for her work 'Differential regulation of Toll-like receptor and CD14 pathways by retinoids and corticosteroids in human sebocytes'

Prof. Andrea Koreck, Szeged, Hungary: Albert M. Kligman Travel Fellowship 2005, for her work 'Polymorphisms of interleukin 1 receptor antagonist, Toll-like receptor 2 and 4 genes in patients with acne'

Ruta Ganceviciene, Berlin, Germany/Vilnius, Lithuania: Albert M. Kligman Travel Fellowship 2005, for her work 'Psoriasin and follicular hyperkeratinization in acne comedones'

William J. Cunliffe Prize 2006

The Executive Committee of the William J. Cunliffe Scientific Awards announces the William J. Cunliffe Prize 2006 accompanied by EUR 12,500 to be presented at the William J. Cunliffe Scientific Awards Symposium during the 15th EADV Congress, on October 4–7, 2006, in Rhodes, Greece.

Application forms can be provided by the secretariat of the Awards or be downloaded under <http://www.cunliffe-awards.org>.

Proposals for the William J. Cunliffe Prize 2006 had to be submitted by May 31, 2006. Nominations could be made by the president of the nominee's university, faculty dean or by the CEO of the nominee's institution or company. Self-nominations are not accepted.

The decisions are taken by the Executive Committee of the William J. Cunliffe Scientific Awards.

The William J. Cunliffe Scientific Awards Executive Committee

Prof. Dr. Christos C. Zouboulis (Chair)
Prof. Dr. Harald P.M. Gollnick (Vice-Chair)
Prof. Yasuo Asada
Prof. George Cotsarelis, MD
Prof. Brigitte Dréno
Prof. Ana Kaminsky
Prof. Terence Kealey, MD
Prof. Jean-Hilaire Saurat
Prof. Diane Thiboutot, MD

Information

The William J. Cunliffe Scientific Awards
Prof. Dr. Christos C. Zouboulis
Chairman of the Scientific Committee
Departments of Dermatology and Immunology
Dessau Medical Center
Auenweg 38
DE-06847 Dessau (Germany)
Fax +49 340 501 4025
E-Mail info@cunliffe-awards.org
<http://www.cunliffe-awards.org>

The William J. Cunliffe Scientific Awards are supported by a generous gift of Galderma.