NeuroImmunoModulation has passed its first year successfully with publication of a fine group of papers. We believe that the journal is well launched and, with the continuing expansion of research in the field, will thrive and come to be the landmark publication in neuroimmuno-modulation.

We are maintaining a very short lag time for publication and expect this to continue. However, in order to obtain even more rapid publication, we are instituting a Rapid Communication section. This section is for short papers and they will have the same characteristics as rapid communications in Neuroendocrinology. We will make certain that the reviews of these reports are complete within two weeks after receipt so that they can be published at the most rapid pace.

We have added a number of other experts from all over the world to the Editorial Board to give worldwide coverage of this burgeoning field. We invite you to submit papers on your best work for publication in what we believe will become the worldwide voice for research on all aspects of neuroimmunomodulation.
